Persiapan persalinan dalam penelitian ini ditemukan banyak responden yang tidak siap, atau persiapannya masih kurang, karena mereka jarang konsultasi dengan bidan dan jarang mendapatkan informasi terkait dengan kebutuhan ibu saat bersalin, hal ini juga disukung dengan tidak teraturnya responden dalam melakukan ANC.

ABSTRACT

By : Eka Novia Prihantini

There are still many primigravida pregnant women who do not comply with ANC examinations, and there are some primigravida pregnant women who come when their pregnancy has entered the third trimester, so they do not receive IEC regarding pregnancy and childbirth as a result of which pregnant women have not prepared themselves to face childbirth. To anticipate this, it is necessary to implement antenatal care. Antenatal care services aim to provide services to mothers during pregnancy, in which the services are carried out in accordance with the Standards of Midwifery Care. This research aims to determine the relationship between the implementation of antenatal care and preparation for childbirth in third trimester primigravida mothers.

Analysis of the relationship between the implementation of Antenatal Care and Preparation for Childbirth. Based on the results of the chi square test, a significant value of $0.000 < \alpha 0.05$ was obtained, so H_1 was accepted, meaning there is a relationship between the implementation of antenatal care and preparation for childbirth at the Majaran Health Center, Sorong Regency.

Preparation for childbirth in this study found that many respondents were not ready, or their preparation was still lacking, because they rarely consulted with midwives and rarely received information related to the mother's needs during childbirth. This was also supported by respondents' irregularity in carrying out ANC.
